Together we are working toward the shared vision of healing the collective stress and distress of our time, through scientifically-proven, traditional modalities of touch, energy, movement and breath.

What our RMTs are saying about working at Nest

“What I love about Nest is how supported I feel to develop and progress my own practice. When I was first hired and I mentioned the fact that I enjoyed treating clients with TMJ dysfunction, there was an immediate conversation about how we could promote that within the clinic and attract patients with that particular focus. The flexibility and control I have over my own schedule are such a plus too, I can add or reduce hours within my days here and there without any hassle. This has been particularly helpful during my pregnancy, when some weeks I feel more energetic than others!

There's no micromanaging, just genuine care about me, both as an RMT and a human being, and finding the perfect balance between those things.

Nest also manages to strike a great balance between upholding all safety and health regulations (particularly during Covid), while maintaining a calm, caring, and supportive environment that both patients and therapists can feel.

Finally, I feel really appreciated at Nest, by the team and the clients! Karen has worked really hard to build a business based on integrity, acceptance, and genuine care for everyone that comes through the door. Because of this, there are a lot of long-standing patients that are happy to be treated by, and trust, the other RMTs that Karen hires at the clinic. “ KM
